SUMMARY OF QUESTIONS AND RESPONSES AT THE 49th ANNUAL GENERAL MEETING HELD ON 23 OCTOBER 2025

Substantial and relevant comments/queries from Shareholders and responses from the Company's Board of Directors and Management are set out below:

Question 1

A shareholder enquired about the possibility of injecting the commercial properties of GuocoLand and its subsidiaries (the "Group") into a real estate investment trust ("REIT") for tax efficiency and to unlock value.

Response

Mr Cheng Hsing Yao, Group Chief Executive Officer ("GCEO") replied that GuocoLand remains open to such opportunities. He shared that timing, market conditions and relative yields of REIT are amongst the considerations. The Group would continue to evaluate and consider such an exercise.

Question 2

A shareholder noted that cost of sales relative to revenue has been increasing year-on-year and enquired about the reasons for the increase.

Response

Mr Andrew Chew, Group Chief Financial Officer ("GCFO") replied that the cost of sales in the financial year ended 30 June 2024 included a one-off fair value gain on the transfer from development properties to investment properties. Excluding the effect of that fair value gain, the increase in cost of sales year-on-year was in line with the increase in revenue.

Question 3

A shareholder noted that GuocoLand's debt-to-assets ratio stood at 0.44 times and asked about the expectations for the Group's debt-to-assets ratio going forward and whether there is an upper limit.

Response

The GCFO explained that the Group's loans are supported by strong investment property revenues with healthy interest coverage ratios and quality residential projects that are substantially sold. He added that GuocoLand's debt levels might vary depending on its development cycle. He further added that at all times, the Group's borrowings are kept within an established limit. GuocoLand adopts a disciplined debt and capital management approach, ensuring that projects achieve healthy sales momentum before new ones are undertaken.

Question 4

A shareholder referred to the financial year ended 30 June 2025 ("FY2025") allowance for foreseeable losses on development properties in China, enquiring what the Company would do to manage its exposure to China, whether there would be any further write downs, as well as the sale status of the residential projects in China. He also asked about the other undeveloped land plots in China.

Response

The GCEO explained that Singapore makes up the majority of the Group's assets and revenue while its China operations form a minor part of the Group's overall business. GuocoLand's immediate focus is to actively monetise its assets in China. As a result of that strategy, GuocoLand has recorded sales value of around RMB1 billion per year in FY2024 and FY2025, allowing the Group to improve liquidity and substantially pare down its loans.

The GCFO added that as at end-June 2025, the Group had about S$1.7 billion in assets in China. Chongqing's assets made up about half of that. The allowance for foreseeable losses was made on the Group's residential properties in Chongqing due to the persistent challenges there. Based on GuocoLand's current assessment, the allowances made are sufficient, but the Group would continue to monitor the situation closely. As at 30 June 2025, GuocoLand China has sold 72% of the 986 units launched at Guoco 18T and 84% of the 649 units launched at Guoco Central Park. The Group is focused on substantially selling its existing inventory before commencing development of the remaining land parcels. While the property development business in Chongqing is facing challenges, the property investment business in Shanghai is making progress. In Property Investment, Guoco Changfeng City South Tower achieved 92% commitment rate while the North Tower has been leasing steadily.

Question 5

A shareholder enquired about the interest rates that GuocoLand is paying on its green loans.

Response

The GCFO replied that interest rates of green loans are generally comparable to conventional bank loans, with the main difference being the requirements that the developments must meet certain sustainable criteria to qualify for the green loans.

Question 6

A shareholder asked for more colour on the profit margins of the Group's residential projects in Singapore.

Response

The GCEO replied that profit margins are generally influenced by factors such as land and construction costs, selling price and speed of sales. The GCFO added that if the projects sell well, the Group does not need to draw loans for construction, as there are progressive payments from the sales, hence saving on interest costs and increasing Internal Rate of Return on the projects.

Question 7

A shareholder noted that residential property development is capital intensive. He asked about the proportion of debt and equity used to finance the land and construction costs for residential projects, as well as the Group's land acquisition strategy going forward.

Response

The GCEO replied that GuocoLand assesses land acquisition opportunities on multitude of fundamentals. The GCFO explained that GuocoLand typically finances residential property land acquisitions with loans, while construction costs are mainly funded through the progressive payments received from sales. As a result, generally construction loans are not required for residential projects that sell reasonably well.

Question 8

A shareholder asked for the gross development value for Springleaf Residence.

Response

The GCEO said that he is unable to disclose the value due to commercial sensitivities.

Question 9

A shareholder noted that GuocoLand has participated in several joint ventures ("JVs"). He enquired about the Group's decision-making process when it comes to JVs.

Response

The GCEO replied that entering JVs enables GuocoLand to achieve wider coverage in its property development business in Singapore. Using the Lentor Hills estate as an example, the Group acquired its first site, Lentor Modern, on its own. By leveraging JVs, it was able to manage its capital prudently while continuing to invest in the Lentor Hills estate and establish its foothold there.

Question 10

A shareholder enquired about the main sales channels – direct selling, online portals or property agents – which GuocoLand uses to market its residential developments.

Response

The GCEO replied that most of GuocoLand's residential projects are sold through agents as they are currently an influential part of the home buying process.

Question 11

A shareholder enquired about the Group's plan for Tower REIT, noting the low occupancy rate at one of its assets.

Response

The GCEO replied that the new office supply is high in the Kuala Lumpur City Centre market which impacted older buildings like Menara HLX. However, the manager of Tower REIT has managed to improve the occupancy at Menara HLX and that remains its focus.
